

Yasotha V

Educational Psychologist

Yasotha V is a highly experienced psychologist with a passion for supporting children and adolescents with learning, behavioural and social emotional challenges. With over 20 years in the field, Yasotha brings a wealth of knowledge in conducting assessments and providing support recommendations for her clients, parents and school personnel. Yasotha's expertise is further enhanced by her specialised training from the University of Cambridge, UK (Autism Research Centre), where she learned to conduct Autism diagnostic assessments using the ADOS and ADI-R tools. Prior to starting Stars Psychology, Yasotha served as a Senior Psychologist at SPELD Victoria from 2017 to 2022. During her tenure, she provided invaluable support to children and adolescents with learning difficulties, and their families, helping them overcome challenges and reach their full potential. Yasotha's commitment to education and professional development is evident through her role at the University of Melbourne where she shared her knowledge and expertise with trainee psychologists and educators in the Master of Educational Psychology and Master of Teaching Program from 2014 to 2017. Before her time in Australia, Yasotha worked as an Educational Psychologist at the Psychological Services Unit, Singapore. This role allowed her to gain valuable experience in the assessment and support of students with diverse needs, further enhancing her ability to provide comprehensive psychological services.
